

Centricity™ Analytics

An intuitive, flexible analytical tool that evaluates revenue, detects undesired utilization trends and investigates new business opportunities.

For successful management of today's healthcare organizations, access to timely and accurate information is critically important. Centricity Analytics provides administrators with an intuitive, flexible analytical tool to help manage this complex environment.

Centricity's easy-to-use interface simplifies the process of navigating through detailed data in order to isolate the information that will help organizations evaluate revenue, detect undesired utilization trends and investigate new business opportunities.

Transforms Transactional Data into Meaningful Business Information:

- Extracts data into a series of organized subject categories that allow organizations to look at various aspects of their business.

- "Slice and dice" and drill down capabilities to view any combination.

Automatically loads Centricity Data:

- Automatically loads extracted data sets into a relational database.
- Utilizes multidimensional online analytical processing (OLAP) tools.

Offers Extensive Reporting and Analysis Capability:

- Simplifies navigating through enormous quantities of data to allow complex analyses on the desktop.
- Eliminates the need for programmer assistance to analyze data. ♦
